THE PARTHENON this month throws open its columns to the Athletic Association. The leading articles are therefore a contribution from William G. Vinal, professor of biology, and a copy of the recently adopted rules and regulations of the Athletic Association. Professor Vinal is chairman of the faculty committee on athletics and devotes some of his time each day to the work of the boys in the field. This is a work of love (he gets no remuneration) on his part and the entire institution appreciates his services.

The student committee and the faculty committee have been working together to realize a better system of athletics in Marshall College. In October at a meeting of the joint committee President Corbly appointed a sub-committee with Mr. Vinal as chairman to draft a proposed constitution and by-laws for the athletic association. The committee reported about three weeks ago. The joint committee approved the draft with slight amendments. The athletic association later adopted the report in full with a few more changes. The athletic association was immediately put upon the new basis and THE PARTHENON is glad to publish the present constitution.

SOME NEEDS

The Needs of Marshall College

DINING HALL

The present style of boarding at Marshall College, which consists of club board under student management has become inadequate. Our younger students, especially, need closer attention. The Matrons of the Clubs must make a fair profit and the managers get a remuneration for their time and services, in the way of meals. Although these managers are recognized as close buyers they cannot be expected to have the skill of a man who makes this his life work. One buyer could not only attain greater but would be able to get lower prices on account of buying on a larger scale. Private board is too expensive for the average student and the price of club board itself is rising on account of high prices of food and rent. A co-operation of these Clubs would provide for those students who are driven to private board, invite many here who cannot now afford to come, and reduce the expenses of all.

It is proposed to unite the Clubs into one Association whose object shall be to furnish board for its members at the lowest possible rates. The first need is a building containing a dining hall large enough to accommodate several hundred students--besides a kitchen and serving room. The cooks shall be the best, and the steward a man who is not only an excellent financier but a good judge of eatables. In this method it is proposed to offer the student a greater variety of food than is possible under the old plan and to avoid making any member pay for what he does not care for.

At meal time the students enter the dining room and proceed to their respective tables, which may be "Club Tables," those coming from the same part of the state, a table for German Conversation, Graduate table, etc. Menu cards are found on every table which show a variety of "good things" to be served a la carte. Each person gives an order of his own choice, spending whatever he can afford. If he is not hungry he might like a bowl of milk for four cents and six crackers for two cents. If he is sick and only cares for a glass of milk his dinner costs two cents; i. e. the student pays for what he gets and whenever absent does not pay anything.

This system demands a number of waiters at meal time. Many students could more than pay their board by waiting on table. This experience gives the student a skill for which the summer hotel proprietors are willing to pay a good salary. Many men work their way through college by this very means. Another advantage to the fellow who is working his way is that the work is close at hand and at an advantageous time.

The cost of service and the other running expenses which go on for all alike are, and ought to be, shared equally. The management must foresee these expenses that they may place the prices on different food articles with intelligence. For illustration:—It has been found that three cents will not only pay for a cake of shredded wheat and a pitcher of milk, but also for its delivery. The Association would aim to keep the necessities of life such as milk, bread and vegetables at a low price. On the other hand the prices of meat are so high in America that it becomes a matter of luxury to many students. To give every one a chance to get a meat diet it will be found necessary to sell the meat a trifle below cost and to make up the deficit on some other foods.

The social benefits of College Students eating in one large dining room are as great as the financial advantages. It gives an opportunity to express opinions and sentiments on current topics and to get in touch with the college spirit. It gives a feeling of fellowship and self-assurance which does away with that embarrassment which accompanies etiquette. As a whole it rounds out the manly nature of the young men and the womanly nature of the young ladies.

GYMNASIUM—PHYSICAL DIRECTOR
—ATHLETIC FIELD.

Marshall College is severely handicapped in athletics. There is no physical instructor except those of the faculty who are willing to give their time. To be sure it is given cheerfully but the need of a man trained in this work is brought home to us again and again. Then there is no athletic field—all games have to be played in neighboring parks where the managements demand the gross part of the receipts. This ties us down to arranging games with Athletic Clubs which sometimes are highly undesirable, for we cannot afford to bring college teams from a distance. To have to say that the leading normal school of the state has no adequate playground it can call its own is humiliating indeed. We have not even a gymnasium, for no one supposes that the basement room—small, cold, damp and dark, with four pillars occupying a large part of the space would be counted as such. What has Marshall College to encourage Athletics? Yet in spite of these discouraging conditions Marshall College is still struggling to give her students proper physical exercise.

It is now recognized by men who consider the question with intelligence that athletics has its place in the college. Of course if carried to an excess it defeats the purpose of the college, lowers scholarships, and some writers would even abolish Athletics as something harmful. Every question has its extremists but Athletics in its proper place has come to stay. What man would sell the steady nerve, clear brain and moral stamina, which he gained through physical exercise. Not one—then do not deny the privilege, which it is yours to give, to the young men and ladies who are trying to make themselves good citizens of the Mountain State.

The college was made for the good of the student, and the Faculty is the responsible authority. Can a Faculty be responsible for students when it cannot give them the opportunities of proper exercise? No—under existing conditions it cannot be held accountable for the weakening of healthy boys and girls who are accustomed to a vigorous life.

Each year Marshall College exists for over 1100 students of West Virginia, and in turn these 1100 students exist for the State. The first thing provided in this Normal School is trained teachers who shall direct the development of the body and mind of our children. Can a teacher correct bad breathing, round shoulders, etc., in others if he has not been taught to correct it in himself?

An institution which is mindful of the physical development of its students must and will provide an athletic director who will examine them and pass judgment upon their fitness to play. He must be an expert, a good counsellor, and ready to do all within his power to make sound men and women. The prime need of athletics is to give a better physical basis for intellectual development.

DORMITORY

When a new boy comes to Marshall he finds no dormitory to welcome him. He is taken in charge by a boarding committee who select a room in some part of the city. He loses the privilege of being under the oversight of a preceptor and does not gain the correct habits formed by a dormitory system of government. It is at this age that the student acquires the correct habits or wrong habits of working, sleeping, and recreation. When this same student returns as an alumnus he cannot revisit his old "dorm" nor rekindle hallowed memories in the precincts of its halls. It is time Marshall, so early a type of the mountaineer's worth, has a dormitory to help mould the future manhood of the State.

SUMMARY

The need of a dining hall, gymnasium, athletic field, physical director and a dormitory are pressing. Which shall come first is hard to say but the omission of any one defeats the purpose of the school, which is for the good of the student.

Massachusetts spent $50,000 for a gymnasium for her leading normal school and West Virginia has not spent anything for a gymnasium in any normal school. This Massachusetts Normal School provides for two lady physical directors, all of the time, and a gentleman instructor one half the time, for two hundred and eighty students, and W. Va. provides no physical instructor to her leading Normal School with over 1100 students. Yet nothing is so essential to success in life as sound physical health. The restless muscle of college students put up for several hours, feel the need of this exercise as a thirsty man craves water. Not to fulfill this need is placing a mortgage on the future bone and muscle of West Virginia.

To compare statistics again—

This Massachusetts Normal School has three dormitories with one hundred and twenty six rooms for two hundred and eighty pupils and Marshall College has one dormitory with thirty eight rooms for 1100 people.

Our needs are unquestionable but we do not propose to ask for a proportionate standard with Massachusetts. We believe that we can do well with one building. It may consist of a large frontage of a 150x50 ft. and a wing 50x50 ft. In the basement of the main part should be a gymnasium floor which is large enough for a basket-ball court, baths and lockers. The height of this takes in the ground floor in which will be built a running track which would also serve as a gallery. In the basement of the wing would be a kitchen and store room, and on the ground floor a serving room and dining room. The second floor, third floor and attic would give ample space for about eighty rooms.

FOOTBALL

In the interest of fair play it may be necessary to have a conference of the Colleges in this region to decide upon some athletic laws by which the colleges shall be guided. That may be a scientific solution of a problem which at present is, to say the least, vexatious. Marshall has taken decided steps in Athletic ruling which require players to maintain a good scholarship, to carry three regular courses, to abstain from drinking and immorality. Students are not enrolled for the special purpose of playing on a team. Since many neighboring colleges will not take this standard it makes it extremely hard for Marshall to keep her footing.

The question to be considered is—shall Athletics be conducted in an honest, clean-fashioned way, or shall they teach the student dishonest diplomacy and questionable methods? The only alternative is to make them a fruitful source of sound moral and good manners. Football is a game for gentlemen. It is not a game for rowdies or for prize-fighters. College men, who are in the college for intellectual as well as physical development are usually gentlemen.

Some people declare football to be barbarous, perilous to those who play it, and brutalizing to those who watch it. So it is when played with most Athletic Clubs, and a few Colleges, who have not built their athletics on a sound basis. These are the teams we will not play.

True, football is a hard game; it therefore demands strength and training. Individual players, however strong, seldom win or play properly unless they unite their efforts with others. It represents man working with men as no other game. The game is therefore an excellent training for our modern industrial and social life, in that the individual is taught to take his place in the great game of life. It might not be out of place to quote from President Roosevelt's speech before the Harvard Students, Feb. 23, 1907:

"I emphatically disbelieve in seeing Harvard or any other college turn out mollicoddles instead of vigorous men; I may add that I do not in the least object to a sport because it is rough. * * * More-over, it is to my mind simple nonsense, a mere confession to weakness, to desire to abolish a game because tendencies show themselves or practices grow up which prove that the game ought to be reformed. * * * But there is no jurisdiction for stopping a thoroughly manly sport because it is sometimes abused. * * * In any republic courage is a prime necessity for the average citizen if he is to be a good citizen, and he needs physical courage no less than moral courage, the courage that dares as well as the courage that endures, the courage that will fight valiantly alike against the foes of the soul and the foes of the body. Athletics are good, especially in their rougher former, because they tend to develop such courage. * * * Above all, you college men, remember that if your education, the pleasant lives you lead, make you too fastidious, too sensitive to take part in the rough, hurlyburly of the actual work of the world, if you become so overcultured, so over-refined, that you cannot do the hard work of practical politics, than better had you never been educated at all. * * * Remember always that this republic of ours is a very real democracy and that you can only win success by showing that you have the right stuff in you."

No less a personage than the Duke of Wellington said that it was on the football fields of Eton and Rugby that the battle of Waterloo was won.

How shall we settle the problem at Marshall College. In the first place Athletics should be conducted for the greatest good of the greatest number rather than for specializing a limited number of men for the sole purpose of beating similar teams from rival colleges. Why not restrict our games to a few intercollegiate contests with those schools who are interested in clean sports. Before playing these games we can play our inter-class and inter-club and all other good-humored contests, not picking our teams until the close of the season. Until that time every man who plays football feels that he has a chance to make the college team. Several hundred students will play football and other games under this system instead of a few. In England it is said that the colleges play the game for the sake of the game itself while in America they play it for the sake of winning. Which shall we, as men of Marshall, choose?
W. G. V.

THE ALUMNI

Marshall College mourns the loss of another of her sons. The mortal of Hugh Morton Simms, '98, has been laid to rest in the Patterson vault in the Denver, Colorado, Cemetery. The end came Monday evening, November 16, at eight o'clock at his late residence in Sterling, Colorado, after a twenty-two days' battle with typhoid fever. He had lived but twenty-nine years; yet he accomplished much all of which is an eloquent tribute to his worth of character and energy.

Mr Simms, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard T. Simms, of Huntington, was born at Scott, in Putnam county. His parents having removed to Charleston he there received his elementary, grammar and high school education, entering West Virginia University in the Fall of 1896, where he remained one year. The year 1897-1898 was spent as a Senior at Marshall College. Receiving his diploma from the State Normal School he entered the teaching profession as a stepping stone to law. His career was successful. In March 1899 his alma mater received his services and he remained a member of Marshall's faculty until 1902. Completing his study of law at the State University he was admitted to the bar and commenced the practice of his profession in Huntington. His rise was rapid, but Colorado had superior attractions for him and he removed there. Later he became the junior member of the firm of Naugle and Simms. Success was smiling upon him and he was winning distinction and honor when he was stricken down.

While a member of the Marshall faculty he married Miss Nelle Patterson of Denver, Colorado, a Marshall graduate of the year 1900. To bless the home thus formed there came a daughter, Margaret Jane Simms. To the bereft wife, child, parents, sisters, relatives and friends The Parthenon extends sympathy.

Mr. Simms had to a marked degree those superior qualifications and attainments—some innate, some acquired—which attracted friends, won respect, honor and esteem and commanded success.

ORGANIZATIONS

THE REPORTERS

Virginian Notes

The regular meetings of the Virginian Literary Society are held every Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Although these meetings have not reached their highest degree of perfection; yet we soon hope to make them perfect by a bright and attractive programme and a large and regular attendance.

It is the earnest hope of the Virginians that the rules, governing the Valentine, Garland, Biggs & Co., contest, will be agreed to by both societies. The Virginians are in deep earnest about entering the contest and trying to make it a success. We realize that it is a splendid opportunity for both societies, and if it is turned down by either society it will not only be detrimental to their interests, but it will be detrimental to the best interests of Marshall College, which above all things should be the first thing under consideration.

The death of Mr. Hugh M. Simms, who died at his home in Sterling, Colorado, has cast a deep gloom of sorrow over the hearts of all Virginians. Mr. Simms was one of the organizers of the Virginian Society. In the first contest with the Erosophian Society June 1898, in which the Virginians won everything, he was the debater and Mrs. Hugh Simms, then Miss Nelle Patterson was the reciter. He was an unceasing society worker and to him is due our highest tribute of esteem, honor and gratitude, and to his bereaved loved ones, our deepest and sincere sympathy. --REPORTER.

ATHLETICS

What shall we call the result of the football game played at Charleston October seventeenth between Marshall and the Charleston Y. M. C. A.?

One week before this game the same teams played at Camden Park. During the first half the Marshall team proved to be the stronger in all respects. In the second half, Nutter, an old professional, was put in the back field of the Y. M. C. A. team, who carried the ball for them almost every time thereafter. The game ended with a score of 6 to 4 in favor of Charleston.

The contract for the game on the following Saturday forbade the playing of any professional. This seemed to so anger the Charleston lads that they would not sign it until the very last moment. Under this contract, the Marshall team expected a fair, clean game, which they would have had if all the officials had done the square thing and had given each team a fair deal.

From the first of the game it was evident that Mr. Nutter, who had been selected for referee by the Charleston team, was willing to even up things with the Marshall team for preventing him from participating in the game. So unjust were some of his decisions that some of the spectators who had hoped to see a good manly game, became disgusted and left the field saying that there never had been such unfair decisions dealt out to a team as were now being dealt out to Marshall.

It was soon noticeable after the first kick-off that Marshall had the stronger team, the Y. M. C. A. soon being compelled to resort to punting in order to defend their goal. By the help of a crowd of spectators, who seemed to think that the main part of winning the game for Charleston rested upon them, a touch-down was made for Charleston. This crowd, which kept so near the teams all the time that playing was almost impossible, blocked the Marshall players and kept them from getting near the man with the ball until it was carried over the goal line. A second touch-down was made in this half by the fumbling of a punt made by Charleston and the securing of the ball by a Charleston player almost on Marshall's goal line.

It took almost two hours to play the fifteen minute half, which was very wearisome to both the Marshall players and the spectators. This extended time was due mostly to the fact that the captain of the Charleston team had to talk to his referee before decisions could be given, and then sometimes they were changed after they had been given to make them even more pleasing to the Charleston team.

The second half started off by Charleston kicking to Marshall. In three minutes the Marshall team had carried the ball almost the entire length of the field, Wood making a brilliant 35 yard end run for a touch-down. This was disputed to be legal by Mr. Nutter, who was now umpire, after he had talked with his captain. After some discussion of the point in question, the umpire agreed with referee that they count the touch-down made by Wood. Marshall now lined up to receive another kick-off, while the captain of the Charleston team talked with his umpire again, who soon called out that he would not count the touch-down for Marshall. At this juncture Captain McQueen thinking that there was no need of making touchdowns when they could not be counted, called the men off the field.

R. C. SPANGLER, Reporter.

Ashland 6-Marshall 0

On October twenty-fourth the Marshall football team lined-up against Ashland at Camden Park to be defeated again by a weaker team.

During the first part of the game the teams seemed to be very well matched and it looked as though neither was likely to score; but just before the first half ended Ashland punted almost to Marshall's goal line. Here in the first play the Marshall boys fumbled the ball, which rolled over the goal line and was secured by an Ashland player. This half soon ended with a score of 6-0 in favor of Ashland.

The last half started off by Ashland kicking to Marshall. First down, Robinson kicked the line. Second down, Myer carried the ball around right-end for a sixty-yard run and when about to be tackled made a backward pass to Robinson who carried it over the goal line. On account of a little thoughtlessness, the Marshall boys lost their chance to try for goal.

Almost all the time during the remainder of the half the ball was kept in Ashland's territory. Before the half was ended a touch-back was made, and Ashland kicked to Marshall from the twenty-five yard line. Myer received the ball and carried it back to Marshall's thirty-five yard line. First down, a twenty-three yard end run by Myer. Second down, no gain. Here for some unknown reason the ball was given to the Ashland team, which punted out of danger. During the remainder of the half, the ball remained near the middle of the field.
